What Caused Dillinger?

What is the reason for John Dillinger? The answer to that question may be up to society, or it may be a matter of individual responsibility. Articles appearing in the press seem to blame the Indiana prison system, but there is plenty of evidence to put the blame on the man himself.

John Dillinger led a fairly normal life until he was 22 years old. Up to the day in 1924 that he and a companion, robbed and slugged a grocer in his home town of Morresville, Ind., Dillinger was not much different from the average American boy, except that he seems to have been disinclined to work.

At the age of twelve this lad was baptised into church membership in Indianapolis, which indicates some religious training, perhaps as much as the average young person receives. If he had any religious experience at all when he joined the church, he must have known the difference between right and wrong and understood something of his own obligation to do right. Surely that is not asking too much.

Young Dillinger must have enjoyed normal school advantages. At the age of 17 he quit school to become a machinist, a decision that any American boy might make if he wished to learn a trade. Up to this time the boy had no police record.

When John was 19 his father moved from the city to a farm near Morresville, and here we find the first evidence that young Dillinger was swerving from the "straight and narrow." For two years he loafed, hunted, fished and played amateur baseball. Any lad may loaf occasionally, hunt and fish now and then and play baseball, but when all are combined to form the permanent round of occupations for a long period, the results are not usually good.

The year Dillinger was 21 he had a love affair. The girl left him, and he left home to join the navy, exhibiting a flair for the dramatic which showed up many times in his criminal activities. He didn't like the navy and deserted. That was bad. He returned home, married, the he had no definite occupation or purpose in life, and finally resorted to crime for a living.

He was sent to the penitentiary for his first crime. It did not reform him, because he thought he got a "bum rap." He got a sentence of 10 to 21 years, but was paroled before the minimum time was served, although he was classed as an incorrigible. That was in 1933, and from that time until federal guns brought him down, he robbed and plundered and murdered himself as his own arbiter; he sealed his own fate.

As far as we can see, Dillinger was a normal man who chose the wrong, rather than the right, passed up opportunities for right living. Fed his hate with imagined wrongs, and ended his life as an evil-doer who has forfeited all considerations of society. He is gone, and there remains no problem for society to solve. Dillinger himself was his own arbiter; he sealed his own fate.

Grace Church Doings

Those people who braved the severe weather yesterday and attended the morning service at Grace church felt well repaid. The sermon was delivered by Rev. McKendree M. Blair of Lovington, Ill. The sermon topic, "The Upward Calling of God," represented thoughtful preparation and pleasing delivery. Mrs. Lee Husted rendered a solo.

Sunday school attendance was greatly reduced, there being only 203 present, and an offering of $6.81. At the league service at 6:30 reports were made by the young people in attendance at the Petersburg Institute.

Mid-week prayer service on Wednesday evening at 7:30 will be conducted by Dr. G. E. Scrimger.

Next Sunday morning the congregation of Centenary church will meet at 10:30 a.m. to show what they really can do for the Grace church in a union service. Rev.

Chief Executive. The Navy is doing C. H. Thrall will deliver the sermon.

The New Deal in Washington

No Tiee, No Codee . . .
The General Smashes No Plates . . . Telephone Girl Springs a Throttlebottleism . . . Dry Co-ops Face Criticism.

By Rodney Dutcher
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington, July 23.—Plenty unsung heroes went into the making of those NRA service codes which now have been so ruthlessly ripped asunder.

Col. G. Defreest Larmer, a deputy administrator over such codes, was recalling the days when his group sweated to round up hordes of small entrepreneurs for the "fair competition" experiment.

There are 100,000 Chinese laundrymen in this country—more or less," he said. "And we spent days trying to get the Chinese embassy to teach us how to tell those guys about NRA.

"Every time you tried to talk to them about a code they shut up like clams. They all thought we were trying to deport them."

That problem—one among thousands—was never quite solved.

The General Fits In

General Johnson, who often reminds you of a bold snorter around after China shops, gave everybody here the willies when he blew into San Francisco and insisted on making a speech which had been canceled for him.

Then the general, who had been then cast out of the labor disputes picture here, foisted the shadower by fitting into the situation very nicely without breaking a single plait. The real story of how Johnson came to be boss mediator out there is this:

Johnson made his inflammatory drive—the radicals—out—like rats speech over urgent protests of Assistant Secretary of Labor-Assistant NRA Administrator-Special Mediator Ed McGrady, who wanted him to keep quiet. This followed directly the strike committee's first resolution for arbitration and seemed to threaten the apple-cart. But it developed that Johnson had been shouting at dead lions. If he had spoken 24 hours earlier the strike might be going on yet. It was just luck he didn't. He had a set date for a speech and insisted on keeping it.

Suddenly the president's Mediation Board turned to Johnson and asked his aid. They faced tough sessions with certain big employers who wanted to take advantage of the strike failure to smash labor unions. Johnson has a way with big industrialists. (They have a way with him, too—goodness knows!) His speech had been right down their alley. He had something of a whip hand, as shipowners still had to get a code from him. And those were the reasons why Johnson for all his explosive potentialities and unpopularity with labor, was asked to bounce right back into the field of labor disputes.

Throttlebottleism

Wonder why most of the good stories in Washington have to do with Secretary Ickes. Must be something about Ickes.

He tells how he asked the telephone operator to get John Garner for him. "Who?" asked the operator.

"The vice president!"

"What company is he vice president of?" demanded the girl.

Milk and Firecrackers

Firecrackers will soon be popping under certain officials of large cooperatives and other farmer organizations. The AAA brain trusters, who think they're doing a handsome job toward saving the farmer from his enemies and adversities, are pretty tired of so-called farmer leaders whom they accuse of playing in cahoots with "middle men" at the expense of both farmers and consumers.

Dairy co-operative leaders, for instance, are fighting the present milk plan by demanding imposition of set retail prices in addition to the guaranteed price to consumers.

This solicitude for large milk distributors, who have been shown to make profits of 15 to 30 per cent, originally caused AAA to set resale prices which soon proved untenable because small independents could pay farmers more than was required and charge consumers less. The AAA has trouble enough fighting distributors, without having what it regards as "false" farmer leaders lining up farmers against its program. It will go behind those leaders to the individual farmers.

Former practices of the big American Farm Bureau Federation, which sold its influence and lobbying facilities to "power trust" and other special interests, are still remembered. AAA has confidence in President Ed O'Neill of the federation, but not in some state officers and other subordinates. Chester Gray, veteran federation lobbyist whose Muscle Shoals tactics were exposed, is still on the job here.

People of this section are not accustomed to the intense heat, which has held the midwest in its grip. They are apt to suffer from overexertion, taxing themselves without thought of what may be the results. The heat is no joking matter. While it is prevalent people should ease up, use caution and avoid exhaustion as much as humanly possible.

By this we do not mean that everything should be dropped until the weather moderates. Most people can continue their everyday habits without harm. Moderation in eating, drinking, dress, work, and sports should be the watchword.

The city worker, the farmer and all should keep in mind the dangers of sunstroke and heat exhaustion. Fatigue should not be allowed to grow too pronounced in any activity. A few more rest periods a longer noon hour and temporary shade when it can be erected are protections worth taking. Precautions observed in a time of excessive heat with the same thoroughness that we prepare against cold would materially reduce the number of fatalities.

Episcopal Rector Speaks at Sunday Evening Assembly

The out-door union service on the lawn of Grace M. E. church was well attended Sunday night, and was addressed by the Rev. E. E. Madira, rector of Trinity church, who delivered an eloquent sermon on the deity of Jesus Christ.

Rev. Harry Lothian presided, and introduced Rev. Charles Thrall who gave the invocation. Rev. C. M. Powell who read the Scripture, Rev. W. C. Meeker who led in prayer, and Dr. G. E. Springer, who pronounced the benediction. A vocal solo was rendered by George Hayes, accompanied on the piano by Miss Winona Rawlings.

The preacher used Matthew 22:42, for his text: "What Think Ye of Christ?" He said in part:

This question of Jesus nineteen centuries ago is just as opportune to-day as it was then. It is the great question of the ages. There are no doubt many people who upon being asked this question would reply, "I don't believe such a person ever existed; it is all a myth." It does no good to argue with such an individual; what he needs is information.

It is conceivable that someone would assert that there never was such a man as George Washington.

Argument would do him no good, what he needs is information and education. All intelligent people are aware of the life, work and teachings of Jesus Christ.

Others will declare their belief in the historicity of Jesus; saying that

Springfield Man Injured When Car Crashes Near City

he was the best man who ever lived, but not divine. They will argue that he was the outgrowth of Israelitish philosophy and ethics. He was to the Hebrews what Confucius is to the Chinese, and Buddha is to India. But the opposite is true. He was not the outgrowth of any former system. He stood alone. He exclaimed "Ye have heard of old time—but I say unto you". Jesus stands entirely apart and separate. He is unique in history.

Again others will declare that they believe that Jesus was more than man; but less than God. There are sects today built upon this assumption.

Such sects have sprung up, and thrived periodically in other centuries of the Christian era. You are familiar with some who believe in a graded order of angels and archangels, at the top of which they place Jesus Christ, a created being,

and not God.

Do not misunderstand me when I make the startling statement that if

Jesus Christ of Nazareth was not

God; then he was the greatest hoax ever perpetrated in history. I say this to set you to thinking. When you think the thing through there is but one conclusion: Jesus Christ was God.

He made this unusual claim for himself. He did not say "God is light; God is truth; God is the way."

He said: "I am the light of the world;

I am the way, the truth, and the life". "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father" was his declaration.

He who does not know Jesus Christ,

does not know God. But in Jesus Christ all men may know God as love, as a Father, as the great for-giver, and the divine Savior from sin.

This great salvation is your privilege,

if you will accept him.

Rev. Harry Lothian will be the preacher at the service next Sunday night, with Rev. Harley Marsh presiding.

Council Refuses To Confirm Appointment; Talks Bus Line at Meet

Again refusing to confirm an appointment to the police force, the city council at its regular meeting last night heard a report from the City Attorney, O. N. Foreman, regarding the loss of the city's first liquor law violation case in a justice court, about the bid of the Valley Motor Bus company which is reported to be ready to take over the Illinois Power and Light transportation business in the city, heard a report from the finance chairman that the street department fund was in a sorry condition, heard three-fourths of a proposed cleaners and dyers ordinance and then ordered it drawn up in better condition before hearing any more of it, and pondered over a cryptic statement made by the finance chairman.

The name of Ray Hayes was proposed for the position of patrolman on the city police force by Mayor W. A. Wainright, who presided over the meeting, and five democrats and one republican promptly voted against confirming the appointment. Alderman J. U. Day and Thomas Warwick voted for the mayor's candidate, but Aldermen Conlee, Cowgur, Devlin, Green, Weaver and Williamson rejected the appointment. The only comment made regarding the vote was that made by Alderman Cowgur, who said he liked to see new faces on the police force. The council on a previous occasion rejected a candidate on the grounds that the mayor had not seen fit to appoint a Democrat.

Admitting that an error had been made in transcribing the city's liquor code in his office, but contending that the error in no way affected the validity of the instrument, City Attorney Foreman reported to the council on the case against George T. Ring, which was decided by a jury in favor of the defendant in a justice court hearing yesterday. The city attorney strongly recommended carrying the case through an appeal to the circuit court, and was instructed to take the necessary steps on a 5 to 2 vote of the council. Alderman Weaver and Devlin voted against carrying the case farther, and Alderman Conlee did not vote. The case probably will go before the November term of the court.

The error, the city attorney stated, was in the wording of the penalty clause of the ordinance. The ordinance provides that not less than six months in the city jail may be inflicted for a violation of the code, but does not set a maximum limit. There are plenty of legal authorities, the city attorney said, which construe a penalty worded as the one in the city code to mean that only a six month sentence may be inflicted when a court levies that type of punishment.

The error occurred in copying the penalty clause from the ordinance passed in January into the ordinance passed in April. The penalty should have read "Not more than six months."

The council also decided not to instruct the city attorney to file objections against the transfer of the transportation business now operated by the Illinois Power and Light company to the Valley Motor Bus company of Ottawa, which has offered to buy the local system. The decision was made when it was pointed out that the local company was selling only its certificates of necessity and convenience, issued by the Illinois Commerce Commission, and was not disposing of its franchise.

Operates At Loss

Evidence introduced at the hearing in Springfield, before the commerce commission, was to the effect that the local company has been operating at a loss for the past five years. At the hearing it was said by the commissioners in charge that the local company probably had grounds to merely quit business if they so desired.

Evidence also showed that the local company intended to give the Valley Motor Bus company its busses, and that the Valley company planned to take over the schedule under which the Illinois Power and Light Corp. was operating, and to extend the service at a later date.

The ordinance is a copy of an ordinance now on the books in Springfield, Ill., and provides for inspection of buildings and trucks used in the cleaning and dyeing business, and health examinations for employees in this business.

The council also laid over for the time being the new contract offered by the state for maintaining highways through the city. The new contract provides for an increase in the amount of money to be spent on U. S. route 36, and the same amount for U. S. route 67, but does not allow for any maintenance on Routes 3 and 78, which travel over South Main street.

The contract offered proposes to pay the city $602,07 for maintaining U. S. 36 and $2,047.12 for maintaining U. S. 67.

The petition and resolution granting the splitting of special assessments against properties owned by Mary Hall and Manuel Lash was rescinded on the advice of the city attorney, who stated that the documents seeking this privilege had not been properly prepared.

Find Ring Not Guilty Here On Liquor Charge

Jury Returns Verdict Clearing Local Man; Appeal

George T. Ring was found not guilty of a charge of selling liquor without obtaining a city license by a jury in the court of Justice C. S. Smith Monday afternoon, after ten minutes deliberation. The charge, brought by Mayor W. A. Wainright, was prosecuted by City Attorney Orville N. Foreman, who immediately asked for an appeal, and was instructed, at a meeting of the city council last night by a vote of 5 to 2, to proceed with the appeal to the Morgan county circuit court.

Basing the defense on an alleged permit, said to have been issued by the late Mayor J. J. Reeve, in 1928, which gave Mr. Ring the right to sell intoxicating liquors, and which did not expire until June 30 of this year, Attorney Robert E. Harmon successfully battled through one of the most stirring cases heard before a justice of the peace for some time.

The permit issued by the late mayor was not put into evidence because it was said to have been retained by the federal government in its Chicago liquor control offices when a federal permit was issued allowing the sale of liquor. Attorney Harmon based his claim that the ordinance had not been violated on an alleged law that the government would not issue a federal permit until a city permit had been issued.

City Attorney Foreman brought the case to the attention of the city council at its regular meeting last night, and pointed out that the ordinance had been held valid by the justice court, and that the justice court had ruled that it had jurisdiction over the case. On a vote of the council as to whether the city should proceed in the prosecution of the charge, Alderman Roy Conlee did not vote, and Alderman William Devlin and Robert Weaver cast dissenting votes.

Begin Trial

Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, the attorneys for the two sides battled the case through several legal tangles, and presented it to the jury at three o'clock in the afternoon, without pausing for lunch.

The battle of words began with the defense contending that the justice of the peace court did not have jurisdiction over the case. City Attorney Foreman won his point, however, the court ruling that it did have jurisdiction.

The defense then argued that the ordinance was not valid, because of the failure to specify a maximum jail sentence, but the court overruled the argument, and the presentation of evidence began at noon.

The city introduced City Clerk John R. Phillips, who testified that no license to sell alcoholic liquors had been issued to George Ring, and followed with Detective John Hickey, of Springfield, who told the jurors of purchasing a pint of liquor on May 20, 1934, giving the hour and the minute of the purchase. Prof. W. S. Leavenworth testified that the liquor contained 38.76 percent of alcohol by weight, and Chief of Police Frank Baker told of serving the warrant for Mr. Ring's arrest on the charge. Mayor Wainright also testified.

Attempts by the defense to introduce testimony to the effect that Mr. Ring had received a permit from former Mayor J. J. Reeve to sell liquor were ruled out by the court because of the inability of the defense to produce the permit. The federal license, said to have been issued by the federal government on the basis of the permit issued by former Mayor Reeve, also was ruled out.

City Ordinance

Attorney Harmon claimed that the new city ordinance did not revoke the alleged permit issued by Mayor Reeve, and declared that Mr. Ring had never been warned to obtain a license. He also pointed out that by securing a federal permit, Mr. Ring had shown that he did not intend to violate the ordinance.

The city attorney voiced several objections during the hearing, basing his objections on the claim of irrelevancy. He pointed out the mass evidence showing that the liquor had been purchased, that no license had been issued, and that the ordinance passed last January, and the substantive ordinance passed last April both carried clauses repealing former ordinances.

Jurors were George Harley, foreman, Harry Sandberg, Joe McGinnis, Robert Deaton, Herman Zeiler, and Carl Boatman.

GREENFIELD INFANT DIES AT PARENTS HOME

Greenfield, July 23—Mary Lou Bell, five months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bell, residing nine miles southwest of Greenfield, Linder town, died following a short illness. The child contracted a cold Sunday, but did not appear to be seriously ill. When she suddenly became critically ill, a doctor was summoned, but the child was dead when the physician arrived.

Coroner Shields was called, who conducted an inquest, the verdict of which was that the child died of capillary bronchitis.

Besides the parents, the child is survived by two sisters, one three and one five years of age.

Funeral services will be held today at Providence church with interment in the church cemetery.

Dunlap, Russel May Be Sentenced This Morning Is Reported

Springfield, Ill., July 23—AP—Federal court sentences may be given tomorrow to Millard F. Dunlap, former president of the closed Ayers National bank of Jacksonville, and Andrew Russel, former State Auditor and State Treasurer.

Facing federal indictment on charges of misapplication of Ayers bank funds and conspiracy, Dunlap and Russel are scheduled to appear tomorrow morning before Federal Judge Charles G. Brigg.

Dunlap already is under sentence of two years imprisonment and $5,000 fine for conviction on false entry charges. His incarceration has been held up pending trial on the indictment with Russel.

Acquit Two On Charges Of Ice Theft In Scott

Jurymen Find Pair Did Not Steal; News Notes

Winchester, Ill., July 23—Clarence Hill and Jesse Battley of Bluffs were acquitted in County Court here today of a charge of taking ice from a refrigerator car on the Wabash Railroad. The information charged the defendants with taking twelve hundred pounds of ice on the night of June 19th.

The prosecution based its case on the testimony of three detectives or special agents of the Wabash Railroad. The defendants, Hill and Battley, took the stand in their own behalf and were assisted by the testimony of P. L. Blansett who was present in the City Hall in Bluffs when the defendants were brought up before the Justice of Peace with several other residents of Bluffs who were thought to be implicated in the alleged theft.

The defendants were found not guilty by a jury composed of the following men: Harry Pine, R. Bingham, James McCabe, H. K. Campbell, G. Evans, James Tankersley, Bert Fowler, and Ed. Smith. The jury was out about fifteen minutes on their deliberation.

States Attorney C. C. Carter was prosecuting attorney and the defendants were represented by L. Allan Watt and N. L. Hutchens.

The jury was requested to return again for service August 20th at which time the case against Fred E. Chapman, who is charged with making an assault upon Hubert Gregory, will be heard.

News Notes

Mrs. B. F. Walker returned home yesterday from Our Saviour's Hospital in Jacksonville, where she has been confined for observation.

Funeral services will be held at one o'clock from the late home, 910 Walnut street, with a second service at the Baptist church at 3 o'clock at Snicarte. The Rev. Chockley of Ripley will be in charge of the services after which interment will be made in the family lot in the Snicarte cemetery.

Dane Angier of New York City was in Beardstown for the week end to attend the funeral of Mrs. Valette Kettering Angier.

Heat Record

Monday promises to break the all time heat record here as the mercury had reached 107 degrees in the shade at 11:30 a. m. By 2 p. m. it stood at 103 and was mounting steadily.

The Evans family of this community held their annual fish-fry over this section as the country continues to swelter under a blazing sun.

Two deaths occurred here suddenly Saturday and Sunday. Both were evidently hastened by the extreme heat.

Friends here received word Sunday that Martin Houlihan, 67 years of 724 North 14th street, East St. Louis, Ill., had died at noon Sunday at St. Mary's Hospital, from the effects of the heat. Mr. Houlihan was chief of police at Morris & Co. in the National Stock Yards. He collapsed from heat a week ago and has been in St. Mary's until death. No funeral arrangements were learned.
